To the Editor of The Times:

Beverly Hills, Calif., Feb. 21—Well, yesterday I had what I thought was a kinder funny "gag." I said the people the Red Cross really should reach was the ones away back in the woods that no one ever heard of, the Senate and Congress of the U. S. Well, I pick up the paper this morning and I find their sense of humor didn't jibe with mine. They had added the word "not" to the Senate and Congress, and made it so it not only didn't have any humor, but no sense. What I am trying to get at (if I can get the papers to use it as I want it) is to have the Red Cross care for Congress and the Senate instead of having it done as a "dole" from the taxpayers, as it is now.

Will Rogers

JOHN C. BREAM NEW HEAD OF DIRECTORS' BODY

School Officials See No Need Of Week's Teacher Institute In County.

WANT COLLEGE WORK INSTEAD

John C. Bream, Highland township, was elected president of the Adams county school directors' association at the fortieth annual convention at the Gettysburg high school, Friday afternoon. He succeeds D. C. Jacobs, Arundelville, who had been president for two years.

Other officers chosen include Henry S. Stoner, Littlestown, first vice president; Harry A. Spangler, Huntingdon township, second vice president; A. T. Bennett, York Springs, secretary; Harry L. Snyder, Gettysburg, treasurer; Clarence E. Wolf, Mt. Joy township, auditor; John W. Black, Cumberland township, and J. B. Zimmerman, Mt. Pleasant township, delegates to the state directors' convention, and Ralph R. Ruggles, Germany township and John W. Klunk, McSherrystown, alternates.

Discontinue Institute
Among five resolutions adopted by the directors at the closing session the most important of which was one recommending that after July, 1932, the annual teachers' institute in Adams county be discontinued.

As a substitute, the directors suggested that work be given all teachers by the state and liberal arts colleges of the state to the amount of three semester hours per school year. The resolution further states that the districts in which the teachers serve pay $5 per semester hour for the additional college training and that the county be divided into as many districts as necessary to make it convenient for all teachers to take advantage of the advanced work.

Opposes Marriage Rule
Another resolution adopted by the directors disapproves the action of the state directors' association in disbaring married female teachers from teaching in the public schools of the commonwealth. The resolution suggests that each district decide for itself as to the election and retention of married woman teachers.

By another resolution the convention extended its thanks to the local board of education for the use of the high school, to Miss Julia Ann Poe, supervisor of music, to the high school orchestra, to the girls' chorus and "all who have contributed to the success of this convention."

Another resolution extended the convention's thanks to "our worthy superintendent," W. Raymond Shank, and his executive committee for providing the instructive program and "for his untiring and progressive work" in the schools of Adams county.

Approve Shank's Plan

In another resolution, the convention went on record approving the action of Mr. Shank in arranging for high school entrance tests in rural districts and boroughs this year instead of calling all the children together in Gettysburg for such examinations.

On the resolutions' committee were H. S. Reigle, Roy M. Raffensperger, J. H. Seasey, J. E. Gentzler and J. H. Benner.

Speakers at the afternoon session were William M. Evans, of Bloomsburg, whose subject was "Some Things Good Directors Do," and J. Y. Shambach, Harrisburg, who spoke on "The Essentials of a Good School." Harry L. Snyder, Gettysburg, treasurer, gave his report, and Mr. Shank spoke.

Music for the afternoon included vocal selections by Miss Poe, instrumental numbers by Miss Eva Sachs and selections by the high school orchestra.

The attendance was 133.

Plead For Condemned Woman

In a last effort to save Mrs. Irene Schroeder from the electric chair for the murder of a highway patrolman, Donnie Schroeder, 5, son of the convicted woman, was taken by his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Muldoon, before Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, to make final supplication for the life of his mother. Only stay of execution will prevent the execution scheduled for February 23.

Condemned Pair Leave for Prison as Execution Nears

Mrs. Schroeder Breaks Down In Room At New Castle When She Hears Governor Had Turned Down Plea: Another Made Today.

New Castle, Feb. 21 (AP).—Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague left here today on their last automobile trip a ride half way across the state of Pennsylvania to Rockview penitentiary where they are to die Monday for the killing of a state highway patrolman.

A little cavalcade of automobiles bearing the prisoners and a heavily armed guard left the jail here at 11:30 this morning. The sheriff did not disclose his route to the prison which covers about 250 miles. Mrs. Schroeder came from the jail smiling. Dague was composed.

The prisoners were loaded into an automobile in a garage at the rear of the jail. Both prisoners were put in one car. The steel nerve of Mrs. Schroeder, which astonished court and jail attaches as she lost battle after battle to escape the electric chair, deserted her last night when she broke down and wept hysterically. Shortly after being notified that Governor Pinchot had again announced that he was unable to stay her execution, she summoned a clergyman, was baptized and then fell shrieking on her bed.

First Woman To Die

Bellefonte, Feb. 21 (AP).—While preparations were being completed for the electrocution of Mrs. Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague on Monday, attaches of the penitentiary today pointed out that the condemned couple would be the first to die in the electric chair on a day celebrated as a legal holiday in Pennsylvania.

The fact that Mrs. Schroeder will be the first woman in the history of the state to be electrocuted is concentrating public attention upon the event. Press services and newspapermen from many cities have arranged to report the electrocution and a telegraph company has extended its service lines from this bureau to the penitentiary, four miles away.

TWO PLACES ARE BROKEN INTO BY SNEAK THIEVES

Cigarettes, Candy And Few Pennies Stolen From Drug Store.

BREAK WINDOW TO ENTER STORE

Two business establishments on Gettysburg's "main stem" were entered by petty thieves early this morning, but the loss at both places did not exceed $15.

The two places entered were the People's drug store and Reichle's meat market which adjoin on Baltimore street.

Get Cigarettes
At the People's drug store, the intruders took about $10 worth of cigarettes, two one-pound boxes of candy and five cents from the cash register.

Entrance to the place was gained by breaking the glass in the front door after which the robbers reached in and unlocked the door.

To enter the Reichle meat market, C. E. Tawney, proprietor, the thieves broke a rear window and unlatched it. At that place, the thieves took 19 cents from the cash register.

Heard Noise
Andy Mellinger, baker at Reuning's bakery, which adjoins the meat market, said he heard the noise of glass breaking about 2:30 o'clock this morning, but paid no further attention and did not investigate.

State police were notified of the robberies and are conducting an investigation. They said the two "jobs" had every indication of being the work of amateurs, probably night loiterers about the town.

YOUTHS TO FACE FEDERAL JUDGE

Biglerville Quartet Who Stole Car Will Not Be Returned Here.

Local state police today received a telegram from District Attorney John P. Butt, who had been spending several weeks in Miami, Florida, advising them to allow the federal authorities to prosecute charges against the four Biglerville youths, arrested at Jacksonville, Florida, early this week in connection with the theft of the automobile of A. E. Rice, Biglerville.

After charges of larceny were laid here against the youths, Leroy and Freeman Warner and Harold and Raymond Miller, a telegram was sent to District Attorney Butt in Miami, asking whether or not he wanted the youths returned to Adams county.

Federal authorities will now prosecute the quartet under the federal statute against transporting a stolen automobile from one state to another. After the federal authorities are finished with the youths, they will be turned over to the local authorities.

According to reports, the company carrying theft insurance on Mr. Rice's car will return it to Biglerville where it was stolen a week ago. The owner of the car is wintering in Miami.

District Attorney Butt is expected home from Miami early next week.

LOCAL MAN HELD IN BUS CRASH ON YORK ROAD

Man Killed As Stage Runs Into Pole In Sideswiping Big Hay Truck.

SANDERS ONCE RESIDENT HERE

Lawrence E. Sanders, 24, formerly of Gettysburg, is being held in Baltimore pending an inquest into the death of a passenger of the bus he was driving when it crashed near Maryland Line, Maryland, late Friday afternoon. Four others and himself were injured.

Both he and the driver of a truck were held Friday night at the Towson police station, Baltimore county, for the action of a coroner's jury tonight which will investigate the sidwiping of the two vehicles.

The dead man was Leon Levy, 63, an underwear merchant, Baltimore. His body was taken to a Towson undertaking establishment.

Breaks Power-Line Pole
The bus and the trucks, bound toward Baltimore, sideswiped about two miles south of Maryland Line, on the York road, and the bus ran when the pole snapped and the motor was forced back into the bus.

All of the injured were riding in the forward part of the bus. Their injuries mainly were from being thrown against the backs of the seats in front of them. A passing motorist picked up the five injured and took them to Union Memorial hospital.

List of Injured
The injured persons are: Sanders, who now resides in Williamsport, who was treated for lacerations of the face and forehead, shock and bruises. He was taken to the Towson police station after receiving treatment.

Jacob Miller, 33, Statesville, North Carolina, sustained lacerations of the face.

Mrs. Mary Bansky, 23, of Shenandoah, treated for lacerations of the face and right leg.

Benjamin Bamsky, 27, slight cuts on hands.

Pierre Bonseigneur, 59, salesman, Baltimore, treated for lacerations of the face and lips.

After receiving treatment the injured, all bus passengers, were discharged from the hospital.

Truck Driver Arrested
Witnesses of the accident telephoned Maryland and Baltimore county police, and officers were sent from the Wilna sub-station and from Towson. Baltimore county police were given license numbers reported to be those of the truck, and while en route to the scene of the accident arrested James N. Archer, Stewartstown, driver of a truck loaded with baled hay. Police said the truck was owned by J. E. Veach, Stewartstown.

The road was slippery from a drizzling rain and the accident occurred when the bus owned by the Edwards Lake-to-Sea stages, a Pennsylvania concern, attempted to pass the loaded truck, police reported. The top of the bus sideswiped the truck, causing Sanders to lose control, it was asserted.

Bride Among Passengers
Mr. and Mrs. Bamsky were married last Saturday and were on their way to Baltimore.

Mr. Levy was returning home from a business trip to Hanover. Mr. Bonseigneur had left his seat to go to the rear of the bus to smoke, and Mr. Levy was in the front part of the vehicle.

The bus was en route from Buffalo to Washington and was due in Baltimore at 2:05 p. m.

Two power lines of the Gas and Electric company were torn down, shutting off light and current in the vicinity of the wreck, but repair crews had the circuits restored forty-five minutes later, company officials said.

Magistrate Chester L. Fulton, of Maryland Line, will conduct the inquest.

Sanders formerly was employed by the Gettysburg-Harrisburg transportation company, driving a bus from Dillsburg into the capital. He later moved to Williamsport when he entered the employ of the Lakes-to-Sea company. Relatives of Sanders in Gettysburg left for Baltimore to assist him.

Reaper's History Is Told In Movies

The interesting story of the invention of the reaper—the century of which is now being celebrated—was told in a series of five reels of moving pictures in the Hotel Gettysburg annex, Friday afternoon and evening. About 500 farmers attended both showings, staged by representatives of the International Harvester company.

The moving pictures showed the early life of Cyrus Hall McCormick, his invention of the reaper and the growth of the factories which produced the modern reaping machine. The picture showed that McCormick lived in Virginia when he invented the reaper at the age of 22.

In connection with the showing of the moving pictures, the International Harvester company had mounted on a truck in front of the hotel annex a replica of McCormick's first reaper, which attracted unusual attention.

MAROONS GIVEN 11TH DEFEAT

John Harris Administers Drubbing On Own Floor; Score Is 30-23.

Gettysburg high school's basketball team took their eleventh straight drubbing on Friday night, this time falling victim to the passers of John Harris high at Harrisburg, by a score of 30-23.

The Crimson and Silver quintet took an early lead which they never lost. The Maroons always kept within striking distance but could not close the gap. Poor shooting from the field and the foul line cost the Maroons many points.

John Harris put up a strong defense in the first half that allowed the Bullets but three field goals. The first quarter found the Harris team leading, 6-4. McCullough and Klinefelter landed goals for Gettysburg in the second quarter but Maurer and Stine retaliated with shots to give the Rotemen a 14-11 advantage at half time.

Fail to Get Going
Coach Martin's lack failed to get going in the third period and John Harris sewed up the tilt. With the entire Harris lineup figuring in the scoring, the Rotemen built up a seven point lead while the Maroons could land but five points in the McCullough and Geiselman loop-period. The quarter ended 23-16.

el goals in the final period but again the capital city team was good for a brace of two-pointers and these kept the game on safe ground with the whistle halting the Maroons vain attempt to rally.

Maurer and Stine featured the attack for the victors, accounting for nine and eight points respectively. McCullough landed seven tallies to grab the scoring honors for Gettysburg.

Foul shooting played a prominent part in the tilt. Gettysburg was awarded twenty-two charity throws but could make good on but nine. John Harris was just as poor as they converted but six of their nineteen tosses.

In spite of a bolstered scrub lineup, the Maroons reserves dropped their thirteenth tilt of the year, John Harris winning 33-17. Pierce and Rupp accounted for six tallies apiece while Riner led the victors.

Arendtsville Wins Annual Big Game

Arendtsville won both its annual basketball games with Biglerville teams on the latter's floor Friday night. The score for the boys' game, the major contest, was 10-9. The score for the girls' game was 45-19.

The boys' was a fierce contest from start to finish although the score more resembles that of a football game than a basketball game. Biglerville's inability to shoot fouls, lost the game as the home team put in four field goals to Arendtsville's three. The score was tied a few minutes before the final whistle sounded, Arendtsville winning when it tossed a free throw to win.

The line-up was Arendtsville, Guise, McCaslin, Warren, McDannell and Robert, and Biglerville, Thomas, Bucher, Ebert, Conover and Dick.

On the two teams were the following:

R. Gilbert	47 J. Beardorf
D. Bolen	48 R. Davidson

Animals as Weather Prophets Called Frauds By Forecaster

Philadelphia, Feb. 20.—The muskrat, not to mention the ground hog, is an Ananias when it comes to making weather predictions. Thus insisted George S. Bliss, meteorologist of the United States weather bureau, in explaining at the Rotary club luncheon in the Bellevue-Stratford here why neither "astrologers" nor self-styled "nature students" can make "seasonal" weather predictions.

Two or three days ahead is as much as any scientific meteorologist attempts to forecast, he declared. The hunter comes back from the woods, said Mr. Bliss, and announces that "this fall the muskrats are building their homes low; that means its going to be a mild winter."

"It's going to be a heavy winter—the squirrels have laid up enormous stocks of nuts," says a hunter back from the Maine woods. According to Mr. Bliss, the explanation is merely that growing conditions have created so large a crop that squirrels are able to lay up a big store at small labor.

The government forecasters have an average of better than 80 per cent success in their predictions, reported Mr. Bliss. The special reports he initiated here to help shippers of perishable products have reduced shippers' losses from 15 to five per cent, he asserted, adding that ships protected during the last two West Indian hurricanes by weather bureau warnings meant a saving sufficient to support the entire weather bureau for years.

MOVIE CONTRACT FOR STAR FIXED

English Actress Is To Make Pictures When She Feels Ready.

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—It's all fixed up for Edna Best.

She keeps the movie contract from which she fled Hollywood last Sunday, and she keeps it in status quo until she can take to Hollywood the husband for whom she grew lonesome.

The English stage star and her husband—Herbert Marshall—called on J. Robert Rubin, vice president and general counsel of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Friday. Rubin is the man who signed Miss Best to the contract which took her to Hollywood.

The conference was short. The happy result was apparent when one of Mr. Rubin's assistants came out with word that "everything's hunky dory!"

It was then announced that Miss Best's contract would be suspended "until she and her husband can reside in Hollywood together."

Marshall is at present one of the featured players in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," at the Henry Miller theatre.

As Miss Best fled from Hollywood, she sent a telegram to the movie studio that she was lonesome for home and husband. Another actress had to be engaged to replace her in a picture opposite John Gilbert.

She joined her husband in New York Thursday.

House Passes Muscle Shoals Operation Bill; See Pocket Veto

Washington, Feb. 21 (AP)—Only a flimsy senate barrier stood Friday between Muscle Shoals legislation and the white house.

Sped to the senate by a vote of 216 to 153, its advocates looked confidently to adoption of the measure there. A similar measure has been approved by the senate in the past.

The democratic house minority was joined by 87 republicans and Representative Kvale, farmer-labor, Minnesota, in favor of the report. Three democrats opposed it. They were Representatives Douglas, of Arizona, and Linthicum and Palpinamo, of Maryland.

For the second time in ten years a president must rule on government or private operation of the $150,000,000 project on the Tennessee river in Alabama. Two years ago a similar bill was given a pocket veto by President Coolidge. The same course is open to Hoover.

Father Slays Son to Rob Stranger In Their Midst

Warsaw, Poland, Feb. 21 (AP)—Brutal truth in the remote village of Zaganicki has proved stranger than fiction, which was laughed away as preposterous when Henry Rostkowski, Polish dramatist, wrote it as a play.

Andrew Cygan came home to that little town after thirteen years of hard work and thrifty living in America. Late one night, according to the story the villagers tell, he knocked at the door of the cottage where his aged parents lived.

Couldn't Recognize Him
His mother let him in, but the only light in the single room came from a fire on the hearth. It was too faint for the old eyes of his parents to recognize their son. He decided to pose as a stranger.

Late into the night he sat with the old folk beside the fire and told them of the wonders of the new world, showing them a wallet bulging with money.

Kills Son With Ax
A look of grim understanding passed between the old man and his wife, and Louis Cygan, seizing an ax, brought it down on the stranger's skull. Then they looked at identification papers in the dead

Red Hill is near Keedysville.

The man arrested at the scene of an alleged moonshine camp, William L. Drake, was lodged in the Washington county jail and will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner D. Angle Wolfinger Friday morning. Drake gave his address as Mt. Briar.

The prisoners are suspected of being the pair who shortly after midnight Wednesday broke into the garage of Donald Heffner, just north of Jefferson, and took away ten gallons of oil, three inner tubes, a rifle and some tools. Part of the loot was recovered; it was understood.

3 Brothers Refuse Aid; 2 Of Them Die

New York, Feb. 21 (AP)—Alone in a dingy, ill-lit East Side room the three Trujillo brothers, Genaro, 80; Alonzo, 70, and Narciso, 57, all unemployed cigarmakers, had lived for several weeks.

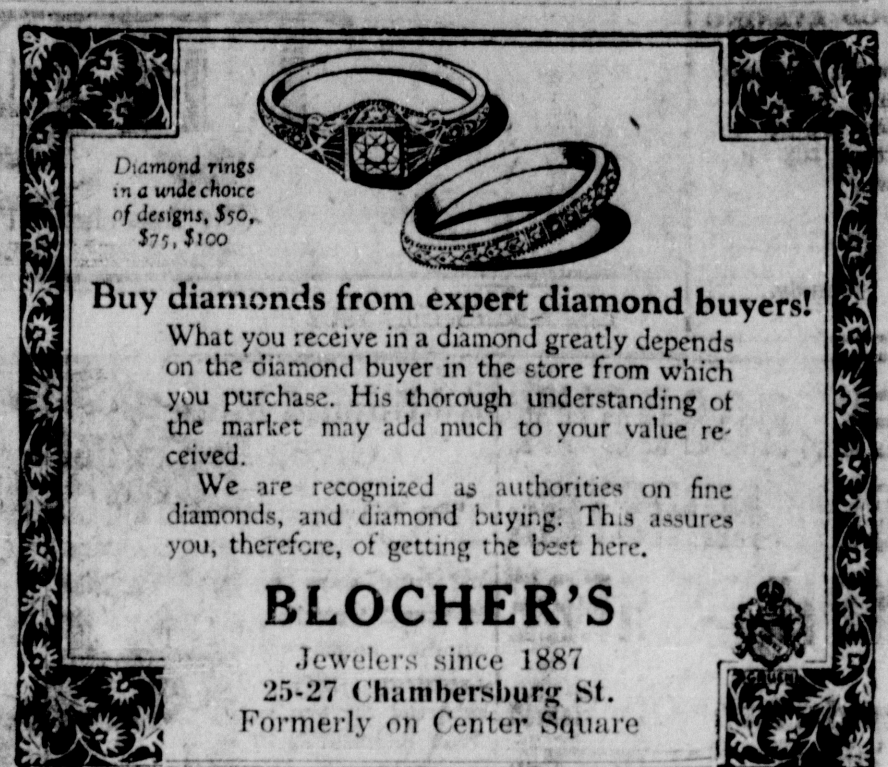

Police offered them food and coffee frequently; the estranged wife of Narciso said she often took the brothers food. The janitor of the building and his wife tried to feed them. But the trio was too proud to accept aid.

A week ago Monday Alonzo died of starvation.

Friday the body of Genaro was found when a patrolman dropped in to offer again sandwiches and coffee. He, too, had starved to death.

Mrs. Narciso Trujillo was making moves Friday night to get her husband to come back to her before it is too late.

Eugene Craighead and family will move from the Gilliland apartment, Baltimore street, to Harrisburg next Friday where they will make their future home.

Government Troops Are Successful In Quelling Insurgent Move.

Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press.
Lima, Peru, Feb. 21—A small group of soldiers and armed civilians attempted the overthrow of the provisional government of Luis M. Sanchez Cerro Friday, but were forced to flee to Callao, where after severe fighting they were overpowered and taken prisoners.

Government troops who besieged them in the old fortress of Real Felipe at Callao, now used as a customs house, suffered severely in the fighting, losing a number in killed and wounded, and several civilians who were watching the fighting were killed by rebel bullets. The insurgents were said to have suffered heavy casualties.

Lima remained calm throughout the short-lived revolt, and while a few shops closed their shutters and troops were stationed in the main plaza, business generally went on as usual.

State of Siege Declared
While the fighting was in progress at Callao the government declared a state of siege and Provisional President Sanchez Cerro issued a proclamation declaring that the authors of the attempt would be punished severely.

The insurgents, numbering about sixty, were declared by authorities to be adherents of former President Augusto B. Leguia, who was deposed last year by a military junta headed by Sanchez Cerro. They were led Friday by Gen. Pablo Martinez, Col. Zorilla Lujan and Captain Arenas, chief of the Callao police.

The revolt started just before dawn Friday morning when the insurgents attacked the presidential palace, where just last week the Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, were entertained by President Sanchez Cerro. Their plot had become known in advance, however, and they were quickly forced to flee, government troops pursuing them to Callao.

College Boys in Good Production: Classical music of the highest type intermingled with popular airs of

Annual Supper Quaint Affair:
The annual D. A. R. supper, with-

From that evening sixteen years

Read The Bible With Us Daily

Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations.

Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God.

Thou turnest man to destruction, and sayest, Return, ye children of men.

For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night.

Thou carriest them away as with a flood;
they are as a sleep in the morning they are like grass which groweth up.

In the morning it flourisheth, and groweth up; in the evening it is cut down, and withereth.

For we are consumed by thine anger,
and by thy wrath are we troubled.

Thou hast set our iniquities before thee,
our secret sins in the light of thy countenance.

For all our days are passed away in thy wrath: we spend our years as a tale that is told.

The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away.

Who knoweth the power of thine anger, even according to thy fear, so is thy wrath.

So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

Return, O Lord, how long? and let us repent thee, concerning thy servants.

O satisfy us early with thy mercy; that we may rejoice and be glad all our days.

Make us glad according to the days wherein thou hast afflicted us, and the years wherein we have seen evil.

Let thy work appear, unto thy servants,
and thy glory unto their children.
And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us: and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it.

J. L. Williams, Esq., returned to town Friday night from a short business trip to Philadelphia.

Miss Elsie Applier, East High street, and Mrs. John D. Lippy, Chambersburg street, are in New York city and Philadelphia for a week.

Clayton Hartman, who recently underwent a successful operation in the Harrisburg Hospital, has returned to his home along the Fairfield road. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Charles B. Hartman.

Since Mingo Junction, Ohio, has become a city of 5,000, citizens are considering removing the "Junction" part of the name.

Psalms 90.

New York, Feb. 21.—I don't know precisely how he got in, but his card revealed him as a field agent for a new fangled school of self analysis.
Peek into your own mind and be a wow, or something like that. In times like this no one can afford to overlook a bet.

By asking questions and charting replies he seemed to think he could not only speed up efficiency, but one in rapport with the best people, your salary, but perhaps sharpen your skates. He began by asking me how I regarded my own intelligence.

I told him I had practically one of the leading minds out in Gallipoli, Ohio. He put something down and rubbed it out. It looked like cheating. His method was very disconcerting. Sitting silently a few moments he would pop a query—that's what he was, a query popper —with the speed of a bullet.

"Name some prominent business men," he exclaimed. I called off Batten, Burton, Durstine, Osborne, Black, Starr, Frost and was just about to mention Park and Tilford when he interrupted with: "Never mind. What is the number of your safety deposit box and where is the key?"

I can't even remember how old I am except it is sufficient. All I could do was shake my head. He gave me a quizzical look and wrote down something. From where I sat it looked like "Nuts." Then he got up, walked over to a wall light and turned it off.

By this time I got my feet clear of my desk. A guy changing his mind so suddenly and often might start wrestling any minute. Pacing back and forth with his brow furrowed he snapped: "A, has six marbles. B, has two. Divide by 3 and multiply the quotient by 17."

Now he was playing marbles. And I am only a rope skipper! Just then the phone rang. As I reached for the receiver he cried: "Remember you can shorten phone conversation by a simple yes or no." It was a scoondso from a collection service and did I pry him off a skimpy not
—OO—

I don't know if all complex tinkers run to type, but this one had an expertly professional eye and a pedantic poise that gave all his askine questions a gloss. Most of the time I was trying to figure out his racket. I made up my mind if he wound up by trying to blindfold me and make me smoke a cigaret
I was going to crown him with my big bottle of red ink. They trick you into endorsements scientifically these days.

—OO—
A friend of mine was recently invited to a clinic where he did a little sitting and standing coughing in high and low registers with a dink-bat around his neck register results. He went in response to a telephone message that he was wanted for a bronchial examination.

He supposed, of course, his doctor made the appointment. When they began taking photographs he discovered he was to be smeared bare cheated across the country in a cough drop advertisement. He still has red in his eye and a gun on his hip.

—OO—
These trivial digressions might lead one to believe the analyst just asked a few questions and was off.
Not that bird. He was around practically all morning. He told me not to pay attention to him. He would sit around, observe and ask an occasional question. I'd almost forgotten he was there when he suddenly inquired: "Do you lace your shoes criss cross or horizontal?" I replied with a fast one:
"Neither. They are laced when I buy them. I merely give them a yank and tie a bow knot." That must have meant something terrible for he put a number of quotations on the chart. And all was quiet again. Tick, tick, tick, tick.

—OO—
Finally he wanted to know what I knew about music. I explained it was little, but if he wanted to hum
I'd chord for him on the piano.
That was the last question. He glanced at his watch and departed, announcing he would send me a complete report later.

—OO—
I am still foggy over what it is all about. It looks like a monkey business. But if it is for a lunacy put him wherever they put me.

Reads 1,000 Books; Still Is Athlete

Florence, Ala. (AP)—Few people read 1,000 books in a lifetime, but Robert Vandiver, 12, high school boy here, has accomplished it in four years.

He read 200 of them in six months and did good work at school, too, his teacher said.

He's a boy scout, plays football, and takes leaves or runs errands for spending money and he says he reads because he likes it.

SUNDOWN STORIES

THEIR COSTUMES

By Mary Graham Bonner
The costumes worn by the Days and Months and Years in the Grand March taking place back of the world were the most interesting and beautiful and original John and Peggy had ever seen.

Some of them were snowy costumes, and looked exactly as though they were covered with snow. Others were costumes of icicles and though Peggy and John thought they might feel cold, they didn't seem to mind these costumes in the least. They were decorated with icicle jewels, too.

Some wore costumes of wheat and barley and looked just like warm, sunny, mid-summer Days. There were costumes of green leaves and spring flowers, of flaming autumn leaves, of pine needles and branches of fire and spruce trees.

Others were wearing costumes decorated with red berries, while still others wore suits made of moss, and out of these suits little violets and trailing arbutus flowers.

Some wore such bright and sunny-looking costumes that Peggy and John could hardly look at them without squinting their eyes as they did on dazzling sunny days.

Others were dressed in costumes of flowers so that they looked like beautiful gardens.

There were some who wore such rainy day costumes, and some who wore such heavy, dull gray suits that John and Peggy could hardly see them.

"The Foggy Days," whispered the Little Black Clock.

Some looked so very brilliant, and others looked quite dull. Oh, there was every kind of a costume you could possibly imagine, and they

John, and Peggy agreed that she thought so, too.

DAMROSCH SEES PASSING OF JAZZ IN NEAR FUTURE

New York (AP)—Modern music is only a phase of composers' effort to write music of their age.
Walter Damrosch thinks, and it will pass.

The composer-director to whom Deems Taylor's new American opera, "Peter Ibbetson," is dedicated, sums up ultra-modern composers as seekers for music which excludes emotion from its theme.

"It is," he said in an interview, "a

OLIVER'S ADVENTURES

YOU'RE RIGHT, LAD! I NEVER THOUGHT OF THEIR CLIMBING DOWN FROM THE ROOF!

THANKS, CHIEF!—ANY WORD ABOUT JAKE, DURING THE NIGHT?

NO, NOT A WORD! I HAD TWO HORSES TO THE COWBOYS NEAR DEEP CANYON AS YOU ORDERED—AND PUT SKIS ON THE ROCKET SO YOU CAN LAND.

THAT'S FINE, CHIEF! NOW I'VE GOT TO GET READY. I WISH THE PLANE COULD CARRY THREE—BUT YOU BETTER JOIN UP WITH THE MINE GUARDS WHO WILL FIND ENCAMPTED AT THE SOUTHERN END OF PORCUPINE RIDGE AND TELL THEM TO TAKE UP A NEW POSITION AT ONCE AT BRIDGE CROSSING—FACING SOUTH!

I'LL WRITE YOU THE ORDER NOW!

PERFECTLY RIGHT, SCORCHY! THE MINE GUARDS WILL CUT OFF ALL ESCAPE TO THE NORTH SHOULD ANY SLIP OCCUR!

WHICH WAY ARE YOU PLANNING TO FLY TO MY DAD'S TROOP NOW?

EASTERLY TO CRAIG MOUNTAINS—AND THEN DIRECTLY SOUTH TO LOWER NINE MILE CREEK.

AN—I SEE WHAT YOUR PLAN IS NOW, SCORCHY! DAD'S COWBOYS NO. 2 ARE TO ADVANCE UP NINE MILE CREEK—AND THE WIGWAM VALLEY BAND NO. 1 ARE TO DASH SOUTH AND DO THE REAL ATTACKING! THEY ARE PRACTICALLY FRESH TROOPS HELD IN RESERVE!

EXACTLY, BETTY!—AFTER WE NOTIFY YOUR DAD WHERE THE COWBOYS ARE IN UPPER NINE MILE CREEK, WE WILL SPEED BACK TO THIS TROOP AND LAND—AND I WILL JOIN IN THE LAND ATTACK WITH THEM.

The CRIME IN THE
DUTCH GARDEN

By Herbert Adams

SYNOPSIS: Superintendent

Richmond of the police wavers in his conviction that Dr. Netherton killed Annabelle Querdling to share her wealth through marriage with a niece, Marjorie Blake. Marjorie and her sister, Evelyn, would forfeit their inheritance through marriage, according to the spinster's missing will, but Vincent Blake, their brother, would share only in the event that his aunt died intestate. Jimmie Haswell, detective, learns that Netherton was engaged to Audrey Winford and had no motive for such a crime. While heading toward the Querdling place at night Jimmie is astounded at seeing Marjorie in the arms of Captain Stirling. Unobserved, he joins the group in the house, where Evelyn and her fiancé, Lionel Duckworth, are singing in a room apart from that in which the others play bridge. The maid hands Jimmie a note which surprises him.

Chapter 22

POISONED EVIDENCE

Jimmie's first surprise when he read the note that the maid handed him was that it came from Audrey. Evidently it had been hurriedly written.

Dear Mr. Haswell: Can you come out to see me? I am in a car in front. Do not mention my name or they will ask me in. Audrey Winford.

Since Janet had told him a man had brought the note, it was easy for Jimmie to excuse himself without disclosing the writer. It was clear that Audrey was not alone. She was sitting at the wheel of the car, in the roadway some 30 yards from the drive entrance. Behind her were Constable Roscoe and a rough-looking stranger.

Audrey was brief. "You wanted to know whose car was on the links on the night Miss Querdling was killed. It was Captain Stirling's." Her expressionless voice masked deep feeling.

"Where was he?" Jimmie asked. "In the gardens."

That was in keeping with Jimmie's own discovery. "How do you know?" he asked quietly. She introduced Willie Freeman, a caddy, who often went to the course at night to hunt for balls. She knowing this, had inquired if he had seen anything on the night of the tragedy. Convinced his story might clear an innocent person, he had told her the story he now repeated to Jimmie.

On his way home, Freeman said he had stopped "aside the hut" that's for the seventh green when he saw someone getting over the fence of Merrow Craig. Only one and a half, for it was Captain Stirling. Stepped into his car, he did, and drove off immediately.

He said he would stand back of the story, and Audrey was on her way with Roscoe to inform Richmond, stopping to let Jimmie know of the development. Jimmie said that he would go along with them, as he had information Richmond should know.

"We'll go at once," said Audrey, eager to tell the truth she thought would clear Netherton. Then she recalled that she had forgotten to get gasoline.

"I'll ask Green for some," said Roscoe, turning into the trade entrance.

"I'd better go back and make some excuse for leaving," Jimmie decided. Then he added, "Stirling has just left. Of course, you realize the conclusion people will draw from it."

Audrey's honest eyes revealed the pain within as she told how at first she had planned to go to Stirling and disclose what she had found, then concluding that this would not be right and that she must tell Richmond. "I still think he is incapable of a mean or evil action and that there must be an explanation," she added.

As Jimmie turned toward the house, Constable Roscoe came running toward them, his usual ruddy face almost devoid of color.

"Ted Green," he gasped. "He's there—dead! He killed Miss Querdling. He has confessed!"

Jimmie, recovering from his first shock, turned quickly toward the garage, followed by Audrey. As they hastened, Roscoe explained that he had called for Green but had got no reply, and had then gone upstairs, since he saw a light in the room, and had called through the closed door. Still getting no reply, he had opened the door and made the tragic discovery.

The big doors to the garage were closed as the little party approached and entered the open smaller door leading to the stairs and Green's rooms. At the door of the room Jimmie's quick eye saw the chauffeur's body sprawled half on and half off a chair, his arms thrown on the table on which his head and shoulders rested. He was wearing his uniform breeches and a gray flannel shirt. On the table was an ordinary beer bottle and a glass three parts empty, a sheet of paper, a notebook, an ink bottle and a pen.

On the mantel piece there stood seven beer bottles and in a corner were four empty bottles. The uniform coat was thrown over another chair in the scantily furnished room.

At first, as Roscoe had said, Green appeared dead, but a sudden convulsive movement brought Jimmie and the others to his side. He was on a kind of stupor, beads of perspiration stood on his forehead, and it seemed as though consciousness might return. The constable pointed silently to the sheet of paper lying by the empty bottle. Its message was brief, the writing was clear:

I killed Miss Querdling. Something came over me and I did it and now I am sorry. There is suspicion everywhere and I cannot sleep and so I am taking the best way out.

That night I thought all of a sudden I would ask the mistress to let me stay on and I went to her in the dutch garden and then I knew she would refuse and something came over me and I felt all mad with her and instead of speaking I pushed the image and it fell on her and I went away to Ben and asked for my hammer. That is all. Edward Green.

Good bye, Janet. Forgive me.

"We must get a doctor at once," Jimmie said as he left for the house with Audrey. Roscoe remaining with Green. The little party in the card-room had been waiting for Jimmie, who told them briefly what had happened and phoned Dr. Netherton. Meanwhile, Audrey explaining in more detail, did not divulge why she had first called, since she felt that Ted Green's confession had made that unnecessary. After Netherton had promised to come, Jimmie telephoned Richmond, who said he would await the doctor's report, ordering Roscoe meanwhile to remain by Green's side. With Roscoe's help, Jimmie placed the body on the bed. Another convulsive movement indicated life, though the stupor continued.

Leaving Green's bed room, Jimmie returned to the other room and re-read the confession, written on a sheet of paper similar to that in the chauffeur's daily mileage book, which his employer required him to keep. The record was entered up to the very last day, even to the note for that afternoon—"Mr. Vincent, Bookhurst and round, 62 miles." Near the end of the book he found the place from which the sheet had been torn.

To most of those in the card room, now discussing the startling occurrence, the confession came as a relief. Vincent recalled that on the drive he had taken that afternoon, Green had seemed his usual self, and none seemed to have hard things to say concerning the chauffeur, although Evelyn mentioned his uncertain temper. "One good thing," Vincent commented. "It will help old Morgan to get a move on. No one can suggest Green had anything to do with the will."

Dr. Netherton found Jimmie and Roscoe waiting beside Green when he arrived. The stupor continued, with occasional convulsive spasms. Jimmie had a suggestion.

"Do you want a nurse? Audrey Winford is at the house."

Netherton shot a quick glance at him. "Not at present," he said tersely.

He looked at the small quantity of beer left in the glass. In color it was normal. He put a spot on his tongue and spat it out again.

"Very bitter," he said. "Poison, of course, something uncommon—I cannot say what. I think we had better get him to the hospital."

"Will you speak to Richmond?" Jimmie asked. "He is waiting to know."

Before Netherton could reply there was another movement from the figure on the bed. Green's eyes opened and his lips moved as if to speak.
